Dear [REDACTED],

Due to a quirk in how our elections work in Pennsylvania, there's an opening for an office where you live, and if you file for it, you will almost certainly win.

This is not a joke.

Offices available:     Birdsboro Borough Council

Daniel Boone Area Region 3 School Board Member

The deadline for Republicans and Democrats to file for this office already passed, and no Republican or Democrat filed.

Fortunately, the deadline for Libertarians to file for this office isn't until August 2nd, but we have to act fast to get the paperwork done. I'll help you every step of the way.

If Libertarians don't run for this office, most likely no one will run, and instead, someone will be appointed (probably not a Libertarian). But I'd rather have a Libertarian serve in the office.

I checked the Pennsylvania registered voters list and since you are a registered Libertarian and live in the district, you could file and would almost certainly be the only person listed on the ballot which means you will almost certainly win.

You won't be alone. We do this all the time. If you go to LP.org/penn you'll see a list with 28 Pennsylvanian Libertarians serving in local offices, as well as more information about the local office we'd like you to run for, plus you can verify my contact information. You can also find more information about the Libertarian Party of Pennsylvania at LPPA.org.

The job of councilor is a legislative role that is very important. The council may meet monthly, and passes ordinances, rules and regulations that effect residents in many important ways including impacting tax rates. The qualifications are minimal and are based on where you live. No degrees or work experience is required. Training is provided.

A school board member is a member of the school board which administers and oversees public education. They set tax rates (we really need Libertarians for that), adopt textbooks, hire superintendents and set many critical policies for local public education. No degrees or work experience is required. Training is provided. Only one Libertarian currently serves as a school director in Pennsylvania.

I would love to talk to you about it in more detail to see if this is something you'd be willing to do and to make sure you'll feel comfortable in the role. One of my colleagues, Wes Benedict, former executive director of the Libertarian Party, is also helping with this effort. Please call or write to one or both of us as soon as possible and leave a voicemail if I don't answer and I'll call back ASAP.

Wes Benedict: (512) 659-██████, wesbenedict@gmail.com

We may also try to call and email you if we can find your phone and email somehow. But I don't know if we can find your correct numbers, so please call or write to me ASAP.

It's not every day that you can get elected to office just by throwing your hat in the ring. Usually candidates must spend lots of time and money campaigning. This is a unique opportunity for you to win without having to go through the trouble of campaigning.

After we talk, if for some reason I think this isn't the right thing for you to do, I'll let you know. I know serving in public office might sound intimidating, but this office is probably something you can handle.

Serving in office is fun. I know from experience. I currently serve as a Whitpain Judge of Elections and I won this election by simply writing in my own name for this office. Yes, I won the election 1 to zero. It's been fun serving and has taken very little time.

Please call or write to me right away.

Sincerely:

Dr. Chuck Moulton
Elections Manager
Libertarian Party of Pennsylvania

P.S. It's not every day you can run for office and win because you are the only person on the ballot. So, call me right away. The paperwork must be done before August 2. 1 ██████████
